From Chancellor Kent's Eulogy on the suthor.

"The Inserican Dictionary of the English Language, is a work of profound investigation, and does infinite honor to the philological learning and general literatus of this country. Happy the man who can thus honorably identity his name with the existence of our vernacular tongue. There is no other way in which mortal man could more effectually secure immortality beneath the skies. Obelisks, arches, and triumphal monuments seem to be as transient as the habble of military reputations. No work of art can withstand the increasant strokes of time. The unrivalled Parthenon, glowing in polished marble, and which, for more than two thousand years continued from the summit of the citadel of Athena to cast its broad splendors across the plains below, and along the coasts and headlands of Attica, is now crumbing to ruine, after being despouled of its most exquisite marties have the summer of the citadel of the sum of the citadel of the most exquisite marties and headlands of Attica, is now crumbing to ruine, after being despouled of its most exquisite marties have the summer of the citadel of the most exquisite marties have the summer of the citadel of the most exquisite marties and the summer of the citadel of the most exquisite marties. the coasts and headlands of Attica, is now crumbling to ruine, after being despotled of its most exquisite materials by savage war and heartless man.—
Even the Pyramide of Egypt, whose origin is hidden in the deepest recesses of antiquity, and which have always stood in awe-inspiring solitude and grandeur,
are now annoyed by the depredations of curiosity,
and greatly correded by the action of the elements,
and gradually sinking under the encrosching sands
of the desert. This dictionary; and the language which it embodies will also perish; but it will not be with the gorgeous palaces. It will go with the solemn temples and the great globe itself."

The Publishers of the foregoing work respectfully amounce that they have made arrangements with Mr. F. Taylor, Bookseller, of Washington city, to furnish the American Dictionary, in two large volumes, at the very reduced price of twelve dollars. It is to be understood that for this price the best paper and type, and the best binding, will be supplied—the best copies, that is to say, in all respects.

The very valuable supplement, which is contained in no other edition than the present one, should not be passed unnoticed; it contains four thousand words, not given in any other dictionary; was only completed by Dr. Webster in 1843, issuediately before the sickness which terminated his valuable life, and has been published and copy-righted, since his death, by his executors.

PROSPECTUS

menig de

For publishing in the City of Washington, a D. Newspaper, to be called "THE CONSTITUTION."

"THE CONSTITUTION."

THE undersigned having purchased the materials of The Spectator, will issue, on or before the leth inst. the first number of a new paper to be called "Tase Converterion." It will be devoted to the steady advocacy of that system of measures which will preserve unimpaired the sacred instrument from which we borrow the name; and as constantly oppose whatever is not sanctioned by it. We shall unceasingly oppose a National Bank—a Protective Tariff—Internal Improvement by the General Government—a Distribution of the Proceeds of the sales of the Public Lands—Assumption of the State Debts—as abrogation of the Executive Veto, as unconstitutional and inexpedient.

We hope to make the paper worthy of the confidence and support of the Democratic party. It shall be the faithful expositor of their principles, and the ever ready medium to convey their sentiments and wishes to the public. The Democratic cause, is the cause of truth and justice. It courts the light. It shuns no investigation. And we are determined to the principles, rather than to the men, of our party—to further the great cause of human progress, rather than the mere advancement of particular individuals, will not commend itself to the confidence and favor of thepeople.

As soon as the sill engrossing topics of the elections are over, we shall devote a liberal portion of our columns to subjects of general literature and science; endeavoring to present such matter as will amuse, instruct, and edify.

The proceedings of Congress will receive particular attention, and a full and comprehensive summary will be given, including the yeas and nays upon alimportant questions.

The paper, for the present, will be issued semi-important questions.

The paper, for the present, will be issued semi-weekly during the recess, and daily during the ses-sions of Congress, at five dollars per annum, in ad-same case and accuracy as book-work. The filty-two numbers will form two volumes truly worthy of preservation, of 416 pages eoch; equal in quality to 1,200 pages, or three volumes of Rees's Cyclopadia. Each volume will be accompanied by a title, pages and index.
